CURRENT ON THE WIRE. The war on the electric wires was diversified yes erday by the first accident of any sort in which one of the city's men was the sufferer, but this, although nally slight, was of such a nature as to create George Abbott, one of the line men at work on the house-tops near Reade-st., a severe shock upon taking hold of an imfeetly insulated wire, and his hand was slightly ned from the contact. The current came from one of the enormous wires used by the Daft Power Company, at that the current passed first into another the fact that the current passed first into another smalleted dead wire that lay across it, and that it ess from this wire that Abbott got the shock. The supany had previously informed Inspector Gavin the current had been turned off, but when he med them of the accident they refused to turn One of the men then put on rubber gloves and chopped through the half-inch copper wire with hopped taronal display that accompanied operation proved the presence of a powerful nt. It would, nevertheless, give a pightful shock, and the canvas-covered wire strung over hundreds of roofs where it might easily be touched by any one walking about careover 2,000 feet of such wire was removed vesterday. A number of engines were stopped by the catting of the wire, but the company quickly patched up the circuit. Yesterday was the seventh day of the crusade, and according to official estimates from eighty to ninety miles of wire have been confiscated. CONSUL WILLIAMS TO SAIL FOR HAVRE.

AN ILLUSTRATION OF HIS COURAGE WHEN A COLLEGE UNDERGRADUATE-FIGHT. ING FLAMES.

Oscar F. Williams, the new Consul to Havre, will start on the French steamer this morning for his post accompanied by his family. The Counsul is a mari of excellent presence and great good sense, and is likely to prove the wisdom of the Administration in his appointment. As there were over 700 applicants for the place this much would seem to be incumbent. Williams is a man of forty-five or thereabouts, but appears younger, is vigorous and wholesome in appearance, hearty in his manner, with sufficient modesty and directness to inspire immediate liking. He is a scholar in American politics, an out-and-out Republican, a good public speaker and an honest man. He was a member of the first graduating class of Cernell, and in the early history of the college did a work of valor which is remembered to-day with special pride

An old building kept for a sort of storehouse stood adjoining Cascadilla Hall, which at that time was a dormitory for the professors and various students, and ontained among other valuable things Professor White's private library. The old building took fire in the middle of the night, and the sleeping inmates of Cascadilla Hall were suddenly aroused by a cry of fire. All was terror and confusion. Mr. Williams, then a young man under age, at once took in the situa tion, organized a bucket brigade, reaching from the building to Cascadilla Creek, and soon had the water checking the spread of the flames. The efforts were directed to saving the dermitory, and it was a hand-to hand fight. At last the flames reached up to the cornice of the building, which was of wood, and soon took fire. The building seemed doomed, as there was no hose to play on the fire, and it was wholly beyond the reach of those upon the roof. Mr. Williams at once selected ten of the most stalwart men, and tying a rope around his body asked them to hold to the other end, bracing their feet against the rain trough of the caves. He then let himself over the caves sufficiently to reach the flames, and had water handed to him which he threw on the fire, arresting its progress. Nearly suffocated, he worked on, being drawn up three or four times for a breathing spell and then let down again. He worked until the flames were fully arrested and the building was saved. Then he became unconscious and remained so for several hours, while all the appliances known to medical skill were directed to his recovery.

That incident aptly illustrates the courage and spirit which have characterized Mr. Williams's whole life. He is always the man for an emergency and never loses his head.

He enters upon his new field well equipped for its duties; with strong health, strong convictions, an American of Americans, read in the law and in the duties of American citizenship; an educated man in the broadest sense, and in all ways a fit Consul. no hose to play on the fire, and it was wholly beyond

GLOOMY RUMORS ABOUT A VESSEL.

WRECKAGE SUPPOSED TO BE FROM THE CITY OF KINGSTON SEEN BY THREE SHIPS.

The officers of the Northern Pacific Railroad had not heard any tidings yesterday from the steamer City of Kingston, which, it is rumored, has been lost with all hands on board. The Kingston left this city on November 18 for Puget Sound, where she was to be run in the service of this company. It is said that she was to coal up at St. Thomas, W. I. It has Dr. Albert C. Klamroth was yesterday selected by not been reported that she stopped there, and it is feared that she went down in one of the early December gales with forty-two souls on board.

Marine men recall the fact that two steamers and a bark have reported that they passed in the Kingston's course wreckage that looked as if it came from a steamer. It may be that it belonged to the Kingston a bucket rack. It is thought that this is part of the wreckage that the Seriver passed. The steamer Texas, which arrived here on Taesday, saw apparently the same wreckage, in latitude 37 degrees 25 minutes, and longitude 67 degrees 52 minutes.

The Kingston was formerly employed as a Rondout boat by the Cornell Line. Recently she was rebuilt and bought by the Northern Pacific Rallroad Company. She was a typical river boat, and in being refitted was equipped with two masts.

FINISHED WITH THE RULES OF THE ROAD.

THE MARITIME DELEGATES HAPPY WITH FINAL ADJOURNMENT IN SIGHT.

Washington, Dec. 20.-The International Marin Conference met at 11 o'clock this morning and considered the additional amendments affecting the principle of the Rules of the Road. The first of these amendments was one offered to Article 18, which provides for the action of two vessels when they are under steam and meeting end on, or nearly so. The amendment proposed to strike out the paragraph that provides that the article "only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly so, in such a manner as to avoid risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their courses, pass clear of each other." The amendment was rejected.

Article 21, of the rules, provides that where, by any of these rules, one of two vessels is to keep out of the way the other shall keep her course and speed. Dr. Sieveking had proposed an amendment by striking out the words "and speed," and adding in the place the words "and where one of two crossing ressels is to keep out of the way the other shall keep her course and speed." The amendment caused considerable debate, and Dr. Sieveking asked for a yea and nay vote on it, which resulted : Yeas, 2; nays, 16; not voting, 2.

The delegates from France had proposed an amend ment eliminating Article 27 from the rules, and put ting it in appendix as a resolution, recommended to the consideration of the Powers. This article provides that in clear weather at sea no vessel shall attempt to cross the bows of the leaders of any squadron of three or more ships of war in regular formation, nor, to necessarily, to pass through the lines of such squad rons. The delegates from Great Britain had propo this article, but Mr. Hall said they had considered the amendment and would support it. They still thought the article was a good one, but Great Britain would not insist on its retention merely because it had a majority of the delegates on its side, if some of the others were opposed to it. The amendment was there upon adopted.

Article 29 of the Rules of the Road provides that in taking any course anthorized or required by the rules, a steam vessel under way shall indicate her ourse to another vessel in sight by the following signals: One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard"; two short blasts "I am directing my course to port;" and three short blasts, My engines are going at full speed astern." Captain Shackford, of the United States, had proposed an amendment providing that whenever either of the first two signals described are made by one of the vesse the other must reply by sounding the same signal, in order that the vessel first signalling may know that the signal has been heard and understood. Captain Shackford made a strong speech in its support, but when it came to a vote it was defeated. Captain Shackford only voting in the affirmative. A clause providing for the action of two vessels in case of a collision was added as an appendix. Dut's finished the consideration of the amendments affecting the principle of the rules, and the Conference then took in the class of amendments affecting the verblaze of the rules. There were thirty-one of these amendments and rule of them were agreed to without dissent. On notion of Mr. Goodrich, the rules, as a whole, were thereupon adopted. Every delegate heathed a feeling of satisfaction when this announcement was made, for it was the precursor of the early adjournment of the Conference. There is now but one committee that has not handed in its report, but it is expected that its work will be presented to the delegates in printed form during the latter part of next week, so that they can have an opportunity of examining it, and be prepared to discuss it by the time the Conference meets on Monday, December 30, to which time it agreed to adjourn. the signal has been heard and understood. FATAL BLAZE AT A REHEARSAL.

THE DRESSES OF A DOZEN SCHOOL GIRLS IN FLAMES - TWO GIBLS DEAD AND OTHERS DYING.

Detroit, Dec. 20.-A shocking accident occurred at the Tilden Public School early last evening, while dxteen girls were rehearsing a Christmas cantata which was to be performed to-day. The costumes of the girls were made of light gauze, trimmed with otten batting. Bessle Zeeley, one of the performer had a wand, with which she accidentally struck a candle, igniting the wand. Immediately the girls gathered around her, and endeavored to exting in h the flames. In a moment at least five dozen terrified children were running wildly around the room, with their clothes ablaze.

A terrible scene ensued. The panic-stricken children ran from the room, and rushed wildly through the ler, who, on December 10, 1888, building, calling for help; but none was at hand. into the shoeshop at No. 232 East Finally, however, the janitor appeared, and dashed palls of water over some of them. The janitor's timely appearance undoubtedly prevented the disaster from being much more terrible in its results. Jenuic Lankskear was carried to a house near by, where it was found that every article of clothing, with the exception of her shors, had been burned from her body. She lingered in the greatest agony until death elieved her sufferings.

Bertha Moody, age fourteen, was terribly burned about the waist, and was unconscious from the time of the accident until her death this morning.

Nellie Thatcher, age fourteen, was badly burned from the waist up, and the chances for her recovery are slight. Lucy Renshaw is also badly burned about the neck and arms. Her recovery is doubtful. Edua Fonds, age thirteen, was trightfully burned about the head and face. Her hair was burned entirely off. There are no hopes of her recovery. Georgia Homer is badly burned on the back and abdomen, and will die. Nellie Westgate was badly burned about the upper part of the body and her head was seriously scorched. Her injuries are thought to be fatal. Edith wheeler, age seventeen; Edna Holland, age thirteen, and Bessie Bamford, age fourteen; were all seriously burned, but strong hopes are entertained for their recovery. Those slightly burned are seven in number, but their condition is not such as to cause great anxiety to their parents and friends.

The fire, which meanwhile had communicated to the floor of the schoolhouse, was extinguished without difficulty. Lucy Renshaw is also badly burned a are slight.

TO SEARCH FOR NEW WHATING GROUNDS. San Francisco, Dec. 20 (Special).—The Pacific Steam Whaling Company, it has just leaked out, has decided to send a steamer to the mouth of the Mackenzie River, to search for new whaling grounds. The search will be closely watched by whalemen. The against him. diminishing supplies of whalebone in the world's market, and the consequent increase in price, are the incentives to the action of the company. This company is not the pioneer in the hunt about the mouth of the river. A few daring whalemen, notably Captain Eilis, of the Helen Mar, have already seen the month; Captain Eilis last season, for the first time.

Nicoline, and are now wintering at Point Barrow Nicoline, and are now wintering at Point Barrow. They may reach the river's mouth next season, as well as the Steam Whaling Company; but it is doubtful, as the latter place is 600 miles from Point Barrow. The intention is to establish a whaling station at the river's mouth, and to explore the supposed whaling grounds to the northeast. This region has been unexplored since the time of the Sir John Franklin Relief Expedition, although natives have brought in reports that whales abound there, and whalemen know that the whales disappear in that direction. With as open a season as the last, this Arctic mystery may be cleared up next year.

TWO MEN GET LIFE SENTENCES.

THE MASK OF INSANITY THROWN ASIDE BY MURDERER.

Giovanni Antonio Seiscente, the Italian who was recently convicted of murder in the second degree was before Judge Martine yesterday for sentence. He was tried for killing Henry Nowlk, a pedthe shoeshop at No. 232 East Fortysixth-st., where Selscente was employed. The pedler touched on the chin Celia De Salvo, the twelve-year-old daughter of Seiscente's employer, and Seiscente immediately threw a hammer at Nowik, and then stabbed him with a shoemaker's knife. The defence on his trial was that he was insane, and his counsel, J. J. Walsh, said that he had never been able to obtain any intelligible account of the murder from his client. When seiscente was called to the bar yesterday the clerk made the usual inquiry, "What have you now to say why judgment should not be pronounced against you according to law?" The court interpreter put the question, and Seiscente, through the interpretar "The man came in and insulted my boss's daughter. I told him to go away, and he assaulted He insulted the girl by touching her, the daughter of my master. I told him again to go about his business. I was in charge of the place and of the My master left me in charge when he went downtown on business."

Mr. Walsh insisted that he had never before heard Mr. Waish insisted that he had never before heard any injelligent account from his client. Judge Martine said: "The defendant, by his own utterance, has cleared up any doubt that might have existed as to his sanity. In view of the ruthless manner in which Nowik's life was taken, and the statement made by the defendant, the punishment in this case is inadequate. The sentence of the court is that you be imprisoned in the State Prison at hard labor for the term of your natural life.

DISSATISFIED WITH THEIR OWN VERDICT. TWO JURORS BELIEVE IN THE INNOCENCE OF A MAN THEY HELPED TO CONVICT.

Application for a new trial was yesterday made before Judge Martine in the case of Harris Balling, a Russian, two of the jurors who convicted him having made written statements in which they expressed their pellef in his innocence. The principal witness at the trial against Bailing was John Long, who lives on the lower floor of the house No. 89 Division-st. He testifled that one night, several weeks ago, he entered the hallway leading to his rooms and found Bailing near the door entering into a clothing-store. As there were evidences that an entrance to the store had been attempted, he arrested the intruder and tool Bailing proved that he had a good reputation, and said that on the night he was arrested, when passing on-st. house, he heard the cry of "thief," and rushed into the hallway where Long arrested him. He does not speak English and did not understand the charge preferred against him.

S. Nicholson Kane and Andinet Gibert, the two jurors who were not satisfied with their verdict, being well-off and having time to devote to the case, under well-off and having time to devote to the case, undertook an independent search for evidence. They examined the premises in Division-st, and found that the real thief might have escaped. They also spent several days in investigating Bailing's reputation, with the result that they were satisfied of his innocence.
On the other hand, new evidence was discovered that Bailing had been around the Division-st, house several times on the day of his arrest.

Judge Martine said he was not yet satisfied of Bailing's innocence, and accordingly did not grant a new trial. He suspended sentence and gave the prisoner his liberty on good behavior.

LIVE STOCK SANITARY ASSOCIATION.

LIVE STOCK SANITARY ASSOCIATION. Springfield, III., Dec. 20.-The delegates to the National Conference of Live-Stock Commissioners have organized the Interstate Live-Stock Sanitary As-sociation for the purpose of accomplishing co-operation between State Live-Stock Commissioners and State veterinarians in the prevention and suppression of contagious diseases among the domestic animals and for the discussion of sanitary subjects. Meetings are to be held annually in this city, and the representation is to consist of state Live-Stock Commissioners and veterinarians, and of four delegates from the Sanitary Board of such States as have no live-stock commissioners. The following officers were elected: President, T. C. Jones, Ohio; vice-presidents, H. H. Hinda Michigan; John W. Pearson, Illinois, and Adam Eurle, Indiana; secretary, C. P. Johnson, Illinois.

TO APPRAISE THE NEW CUSTOM HOUSE SITE. United States District-Attorney Mitchell has re-ceived instructions from the Secretary of the Treasury to cause a jury of twelve citizens to be empanelled to assess the value of the property which is to be taken for the new Custom House and Appraiser's stores. The property is included in the block between stores. The property is included in the block between Bowling Green on the north, Whitehall-st. on the east and State-st, on the south and west. The United States, under the direction of the District-Attorney, will summon twelve citizens, who will meet and receive evidence as to the value of the property to be con-demned, and their award will furnish a basis for the action of the Treasury Department.
